Movie Stars to Put on Master Degree at Hermosa

To receive the Master Mason's degree at the hands of some of the leading moving picture stars like Tom Mix, Harold Lloyd, Monte Blue, or some of the others will be the experience of the candidates who go into Hermosa Lodge No. 557 Wednesday night, March 27, for it is then the "233" Club composed of the leading actors of the movie colony come to the South Bay to put on the Masonic work.

This meeting will be inter-community and all lodges of Los Angeles county are invited to be present. Through the co-operation of the "233" club entertainment has been provided on a scale never before attempted in the South Bay district.

Bebe Daniels Gives Some Advice to Young Newspaper Reporters

A series of "hints" for young reporters has been compiled by Bebe Daniels, who plays a newspaper cub in "What a Night!," the Torrance theatre attraction for next Tuesday. The firm star learned her own lessons in contact with editors, reporters and special writers on the staff of a Los Angeles morning daily.

The first show next Tuesday will open at 5:00 to accommodate all who wish to take part in the Pageant of Light.

Miss Daniels says: "Ask for an advance of salary on the day you start work. This establishes you as a reporter of experience and training. At the same time you ask the editor for this, also request he lend you a pencil.

"When given an assignment, register a mild protest. Never appear eager to go out on any story. "Carefully study the style sheet of the paper and memorize the rules for capitalization, etc. In this way you can avoid using them. This makes you popular with the men on the copy desk who would have nothing to do if reporters wrote perfect yarns.

"Please the Editor. "When talking with the editor, be sure to sit on the corner of his desk, tearing a few proofs and page dummies at the same time, if possible. The editor expects this.

"If sent out on a spot news story with instructions to call in frequently, make it a point to call no oftener than once every two hours. This adds to the suspense within the office and makes the boss realize your importance.

"Always write your own suggestions for headlines at the top of your stories. The head of the copy desk will appreciate this.

"At least three times a day, ask the drama editor for passes to various theatres. This will establish an extremely friendly relationship between you and this valuable person-to-know.

"All-Around" Interest "If one of your pet stories does not appear in the paper, got to the managing editor and demand to know why. The M. E. loves these little informal contacts with members of his staff and will undoubtedly pass the word along to the city editor that all of your copy, from then on, is "must go" material.

"Be sure to call on the telegraph editor frequently and ask to read the latest cable reports, race track results and so on. This will show that you take an interest in all departments of the paper.

"For the same reason, offer to write editorials for the men of the editorial writing staff. When making this offer, it is always well to preface it with some such remark as: "I notice your stuff has been rather flat lately. Now I have an idea that will get over as a really worthwhile message to our readers."
